HOLIDAY TO BE FAIR AND COOL Memorial Day Parade To Start Friday At 9

Weatherman Sees More Rain Then Mercury Plunge To Unseasonal Marks

Memorial Day will be fair and cool if the official weather forecast proves correct. Skies were heavily overcast Thursday morning and rain fell at intervals.

The weatherman predicted that much cooler temperatures would follow cloudy and windy weather punctuated by showers and thunder squalls Thursday afternoon and night.

The weather will be much colder Thursday night, the forecast said, but skies will clear on Memorial Day.

THE HIGH thermometer reading Wednesday was 86 and the low figure was 67. The mercury registered 75 degrees at 8 a. m. Thursday and by 11:30 a. m. it had descended to 68. The stage of the Scioto river at 8 a. m. Thursday was 8.72 feet, a drop of 3.90 feet during the preceding 24 hours.

Many farmers in Pickaway county voiced discouragement over the continued rainfall and the soggy fields which have prevented them from proceeding with the Spring plowing and planting.

Cooler weather although generally sunny over all of Ohio is in prospect, the weatherman said, for Memorial Day.

SOME OF the same air which Wednesday brought snow to Nebraska moved into Ohio Thursday with a sharp drop in temperature in its wake. Light frost in northwestern Ohio was seen as a possibility for Thursday night, with the mercury skidding to between 35 and 40 degrees in the northern and central areas of the state.

Preceding the ushering in of the coolness, the weather experts said, there will be showers, thunderstorms, and winds of 35-mile-an-hour velocity.

VOTE FOR CUT

WASHINGTON, May 29 — Both of Ohio's Republican senators, Robert A. Taft and John W. Bricker, voted for the income tax reduction bill as it passed the senate late yesterday.

Circleville's Memorial Day parade will form in the vicinity of Memorial Hall and will move at 9 a. m. Friday.

The line-of-march will be west on Main street to Court and north on Court to Forest cemetery.

IN EVENT of rain the parade will be dispensed with and the memorial services will be held at 10 a. m. in Memorial Hall.

Virtual cessation of business and industry will mark the annual observance of the Memorial Day holiday in the Circleville area.

City, county, state and federal offices, most of the stores, offices, shops and factories, the state liquor store and the public library will remain closed all day. The postoffice will maintain Sunday-holiday schedules with no deliveries of mail excepting special delivery letters.

Many workers will enjoy a three-day holiday when they leave their jobs Thursday afternoon. Most of the offices in the courthouse will not reopen until Monday morning. Pickaway county AAA office will be closed Friday and Saturday.

BESIDES the impressive memorial services at the soldiers' monument in Forest cemetery there will be similar Memorial Day rites in several other Circleville district cemeteries, and graves will be decorated in practically all of the burial places.

An appeal to motorists and pedestrians alike to observe the utmost caution in order to

By International News Service Storms which belted farmers in the nation's bread basket with blows of snow and rain and lashed shipping on Lake Michigan moved across northern Michigan today toward Lake Huron.

Rains behind the storms were reported ending. Weather forecaster L. L. Means in Chicago said snow which fell yesterday in western Nebraska, and parts of Colorado, Wyoming and Wisconsin was melting.

In Chicago the thermometer registered a record low of 38.5 this morning.

Below - freezing temperatures were recorded in western Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas and parts of Minnesota and northern Wisconsin.

Two Coast Guard crews out of Racine, Wis., were searching Lake Michigan for an overdue fishing boat with three men aboard.

HOUSE, SENATE AGREE ON NEW LABOR MEASURE

WASHINGTON, May 29 — House and senate conferees agreed on their compromise labor bill today with three of the 10 members dissenting.

Sen. Murray (D) Mont., and Reps. Hoffman (R) Mich., and Lesinski (D) Mich., refused to sign the report submitting the compromise to the house and senate for action.

9200 OFFICERS NAMED

WASHINGTON, May 29 — President Truman today asked the senate to confirm the nomination of approximately 9,200 regular Army officers who formerly held commissions in the National Guard, reserve corps or Army of the United States.

COLUMBUS, O., May 29 — The house of representatives today passed the controversial $83-million dollar-a-year Daniels-Cramer school bill in substantially the same form as it left the house education committee.

The house was in an uproar when the roll-call started as proponents of an increase to the senate's 88-million charged "steam-rolling" tactics.

The vote was 104 to 19. However, the senate was not expected to concur in house amendments and a conference committee was probably to work out senate-house differences.

COLUMBUS, O., May 29—The calendar-making house rules committee pulled the biggest legislative surprise of the year and brought up the 83-million-dollar Daniels-Cramer school bill for a vote today in an attempt to outwit the school lobby.

It was nearly midnight last night when the committee suspended its rules and placed the bill on for immediate passage. Most of the members did not know until they reached their desks today that the most controversial bill of the entire session to date was up for a vote.

The bill had been held in committee since April 30.

AS THE SESSION convened, Governor Herbert issued a statement backing the position of the leadership in its effort to enact the bill in its present house form.

The governor recalled that last December the OEA agreed with him on an 82-million-dollar bill and that it was this bill he had in mind when he made his now-famous statement that he would never veto a school measure.

The governor indicated, however, that he would sign any school bill sent to his desk. He told newsmen:

MURRAY FOUND GUILTY OF JAP JEWELS THEFT

YOKOHAMA, May 29 — Col. Edward J. Murray, Palo Alto, Cal., was found guilty today of misappropriating a fortune in Japanese gems taken from him by customs agents in San Francisco.

A court martial board sentenced the convicted officer to 10 years at hard labor and dishonorable discharge from the Army. Murray had served with distinction in both world wars.

Court martial charges against him were filed in Japan after customs officials seized a horde of gems Murray had brought from Japan and deposited in a bank safe deposit box. He had failed to declare any of the gems in passing through customs.

President Returns To Washington

KANSAS CITY, KANS., May 29—President Truman and his family left Fairfax municipal airport aboard the presidential plane at 9:07 a. m. (EST) today to return to Washington.

The president's return to Washington after a 12-day visit at the bedside of his ailing 94-year-old mother, followed assurance from physicians attending his mother that she was winning her remarkable battle against an illness precipitated by a hip fracture.

As he boarded the plane, Mr. Truman said his mother was "on the mend." After a telephone conversation with his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, in nearby Grandview, he said: "She is still on the mend, thank goodness."

TAX CUT BILL GETS APPROVAL

Senate Votes For Slashes Of 10 1/2 To 30 Percent In Income Levies

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 29 — House and senate conferees reached full agreement today on the GOP tax reduction bill providing for a tax cut of 10 1/2 to 30 per cent, with half of the reduction applicable to 1947 incomes.

WASHINGTON, May 29 — House and senate conferees said today for what GOP leaders forecast would be "agreement in one day" on the senate's July 1 date for cutting income taxes from 10 1/2 to 30 per cent.

The bill to give the nation's taxpayers an annual saving of four billion dollars passed the senate by a 52-34 vote but fell short of the two-thirds necessary to override a presidential veto.

LEADERS on each side indicated that the house readily would drop its provision making the cuts retroactive to last January and accept the senate's July 1 effective date.

House Speaker Martin (R) Mass., said the final agreement would not be called up in the house before next Wednesday, although senate conferees were counting on action sending the bill to the White House Monday or Tuesday.

MEANWHILE, a responsible house Republican leader said he had been informed that President Truman will veto the tax bill but approve the compromise labor bill, which will reach him about the same time.

$475,809,077 Cut From War Department Requests In New Economy Move

WASHINGTON, May 29 — The unrelenting Republican economy drive cut into President Truman's 1948 budget again today when the house appropriations committee reduced funds for the Army by 475 million dollars over the protests of Gen. Eisenhower and War Secretary Patterson.

In effecting the economy, the committee slashed eight per cent from $5,996,791,500 requested for Army operations in the coming fiscal year. The committee-approved budget allows $5,520,982,423.

The cut was made in disregard of warnings by both Eisenhower and Patterson that rock-bottom economies had been attained before the budget request reached the committee.

THE BUDGET CUT will compel the firing of 74,631 civilian war department employees and the dismissal of 20,500 officers who will be replaced by enlisted men.

Eisenhower warned the committee during hearings that the budget had been computed for an Army of one million 70 thousand men and that the funds requested represented "the maximum degree of economy which the present world situation permits."

Patterson also appealed against further reductions at the hearing by declaring:

"While every effort would be made to save the forces in Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea from resulting weakness, this could not be done. Our position in those areas would be jeopardized with gravely serious potentialities."

THE $475,809,077 slash was defended, however, by Rep. Engel (R) Mich., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which made the reductions.

Engel asserted that the Army could maintain its (Continued on Page Two)

U. S., BRITAIN AGREE ON REICH ECONOMIC PLAN

FRANKFURT, May 29 — The United States and Britain announced today they have reached agreement to set up a German council to initiate policies for the economic reconstruction in their zones as an integrated area.

France and Russia were invited to incorporate their zones in the economic merger. The announcement said:

"Both the United Kingdom and the United States military governments hope that the other occupying powers will accept their standing invitation to participate in this economic integration." The plan for reconstruction was adopted by Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, and Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British deputy-military governor.

Somervell Sees 'Final' World War

NEW YORK, May 29 — Gen. Brehon Somervell predicted today that a "final" world war is a "probability" because of the atomic bomb.

Speaking at a dinner last night of the national industrial board, Somervell said industrial preparedness is the key to our national security. He warned that Soviet Russia may line up all of Eurasia against us and added that we must be prepared to win such a war if we cannot prevent it.

Gen. Somervell, retired from the Army and now president of the Koppers company of Pittsburgh said that the United States would be unable to compete with Russia in sheer numbers of men and pointed out that we must win by "superior skill and equipment, competent training in the use of what we provide and better leadership."

FIRE BOX MOVE PROTESTED HERE

Petitions Against Discard Of Alarm System Now Being Circulated

Action of the city council in ordering abandonment of Circleville's fire alarm system and directing the removal of the alarm boxes is protested in petitions that have been placed in circulation it was learned Thursday.

Identity of the person or group sponsoring the petitions, in circulation in the south end of the city and also on the north side, was undisclosed. However, Boyd L. Horn, 225 Walnut street, fourth ward councilman who cast the lone vote against the discarding of the alarm system at the May 20 council session, declared Thursday he saw some of the petitions.

Several other citizens reported having seen the petitions.

It was also unofficially reported Thursday that steps were under way to organize a group to voice protests against removal of the 24 boxes at next Tuesday night's meeting of council.

Lewis "Tate" McClarren, operator of a meat market at South Pickaway and Walnut streets, said Thursday noon that petitions in his store had already been signed by between 400 and 500 persons.

The announcement is expected to follow the opening of talks between the viceroy and Indian leaders at Simla Monday.

TOP MILITARY LEADERS FEAR WORLD WAR III

U. S. Probably Would Be First Target In New Hostilities Congress Told

WASHINGTON, May 29 — Congress had a grim warning today from Gen. Eisenhower and other top military leaders that World War III would probably open with a devastating air attack upon the United States which could bring "ruin and defeat in an appallingly few hours."

A graphic picture of what the next war could bring was painted by the nation's wartime leaders in secret testimony made public by the house appropriations committee.

Punctuating the testimony, which was given during consideration of the war department's budget for 1948, were repeated warnings that unpreparedness next time could be fatal to the United States.

HERE is a picture of what the next war would be like should it come as visualized by some of America's foremost military strategists:

1. "Within a few years the United States will be open to attack from the North, through the subarctic region" — Brig. Gen. George A. Lincoln war department general staff.

2. "I believe in the event of another war that hostile shots will most certainly be fired on the United States. I believe that air attacks, either in the form of heavy bombers or guided missiles or other weapons, will hit the United States and do terrific damage" — Gen. In the formal statement which he sent to the leadership but which he left to their discretion as to whether they would read to the house, the governor stated:

"THIS BILL, is passed in its present form, will increase the state's contribution to school districts by 23 million, 500 thousand dollars a year, or 38 per cent over 1946 and 73 per cent over 1944.

"I am advised that representative (Paul) Ballard (Jackson county Republican who is chairman of the finance committee) will present an amendment to guarantee that not less than 75 per cent of this increase over last year shall be used to increase teachers' salaries. This amendment picks up where the Ohio Education association proposal leaves off and makes certain that the additional money will be used for teachers' salaries.

"I am in favor of this amendment and of the increase in total cost to the state as contemplated in the bill as it is now before the house."

MEANWHILE, the house completed passage of the bill which in effect wipes out a 96-year-old "blue law" which banned the sale of liquor within two miles of an agricultural fair, and the senate passed—without a vote to spare—the judges pension bill and sent it to the house.

The bill exempting liquor permit holders from the ancient law dug up last year by the Womens' Christian Temperance Union passed the house 83-34, after the house beat down all but a title amendment.

The ancient statute, which dried up two mile circles around all fairs last Summer, also banned the sale of spirits within 1,200 yards of an orphanage or certain state institutions.

THE JUDGES pension bill, defeated by the senate by two votes at the last session, cleared without a vote to spare. The vote was 19-16, with 19 votes needed for passage.

Martin L. Turner, 77, a retired miller who lived at Atlanta all his life and for 51 years operated a threshing outfit, died at 6:45 a. m. Thursday in his home. Death was attributed to complications following surgery performed a few weeks ago.

Mr. Turner is survived by his widow, Mrs. Henrietta Fuller Turner; four daughters, Mrs. Margaret Athey, Atlanta; Mrs. Dorothy Hancher, Springfield; Mrs. Ruth Slattery, Columbus; and Mrs. Minnie Tucker, Rockbridge; a son, Walter Turner, Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. Nellie Ellis, Laurelville; three brothers, Frank Turner and Clark Turner, both of Circleville; and Howard Turner, Kingston; a half-sister, Mrs. Frances Manahan, Tarlton; and 20 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. A brother, C. O. Turner, died last November.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Methodist church at Atlanta. The Rev. Samuel C. Elsea will officiate. Burial will be in the New Holland cemetery under direction of the Kirk and Son funeral home.

Edward Lee Price, 62, died in his home at South Bloomfield Wednesday.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Mildred Haney and Mrs. Donald Brannon, both of South Bloomfield; one grandchild; three sisters and three brothers.

Funeral will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the residence of Mrs. Brannon. Burial will be in Union cemetery, Columbus, under the direction of the A. J. Hott company, Commercial Point.

CHRIS FOHL
Chris Fohl, 83, a native of Circleville who left here many years ago, died May 23 in his home at Charleroi, Pa., it was learned Thursday. He was a brother of Lewis Fohl, 130 North Pickaway street, who is the last surviving member of the Fohl family.

Death ended a protracted illness. Funeral services and burial were at Charleroi. Illness prevented Lewis Fohl from attending the funeral.

YELLOWBUD MWA PLANS MEMORIAL ON SUNDAY

Annual memorial service of the White Oak Camp No. 10323, Modern Woodmen of America, of Yellowbud, will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Spring Bank church and cemetery.

The principal speaker will be Robert S. Cox, Millersburg, state manager for the MWA. Music will be provided by the Adelphi band. The community chorus will sing. Walter Derexson, lodge secretary, said that flowers will be furnished by the members and that the public has been invited to attend.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM HELD AT HIGH STREET

Sixth grade pupils of High street school under the direction of their teacher, Miss Sophia Parks, presented a mock commencement program Wednesday afternoon in the school building.

Youngsters all wearing black hats fashioned to represent mortarboards, opened the program by singing the "Star Spangled Banner". Class history was read by Delores Dearth. Sally Eshelman gave "Christmas at School" and "Music" was by Theresa Hill. Class presented "In the Gloaming" and Mary Pence read the "Class Prophecy". "My Sixth Year" was read by Gary Mason and "Class Activities" by Yvonne Clifton. Bobby Radcliffe told "Remember When" and Carol Goodchild read "My Vocation". Class will be offered by Hazel Reed, "My Vocation" by Joanne Kerr and Ray Huffer gave a speech. "One by One" by the class concluded the afternoon's entertainment.

In the sixth grade are Gloria Amspaugh, Bonnie Beck, Burns Blevins, David Blue, Yvonne Clifton, Delores Dearth, Sally Eshelman, Shirley Gentzel, Carol Goodchild, Paul Hamilton, Walter Heine, Doris Henry, Theresa Hill, Roy Huffer, Joan Kerr, Billy Lockard, Gary Mason, Merda Marshall, Mary Pence, Bobby Radcliffe, James Redman, Hazel Reed, Joe Thomas, Willa Tomlinson, Robert Turner, John Valentine and Jimmy Young.

The appropriation, Engel reported, will allow the production of 838 planes from 1948 funds while from previous budgets, money is available for the construction of 1,368 planes.

The savings extracted from the Army budget is the second largest to be made on an appropriation bill this session and if sustained by the house would boost the total economies achieved by the house on the President's 37 1/2 billion budget to over three billion dollars.

strength of one million 70 thousand men as authorized by law but said the committee was "convinced in view of the savings we propose that this Army will be more efficient and effective than before."

The recommended budget eliminates 74,631 positions filled by civilian employees for a saving of $184,036,216 and calls for the replacement of 20,500 officers by enlisted men to save $106,250,000. It also reduces the flying pay appropriation for the air corps by three million 600 thousand dollars.

ENGEL EMPHASIZED that the committee budget did not cut off one enlisted man, curtail the research and development program, eliminate any Army nurse officers of dietitians, nor cut the appropriation for "the pay, clothing allowance, subsistence, rations of one enlisted man or one necessary officer."

The committee earmarked $3,372,330,000 for the Army Air Forces constituting 56 per cent of the total military budget. The appropriation includes 280 million dollars for contract authorization of planes and other equipment.

The appropriation, Engel reported, will allow the production of 838 planes from 1948 funds while from previous budgets, money is available for the construction of 1,368 planes.

MAY ASKED AID FOR GARSSON, 'IKE' TESTIFIES

WASHINGTON, May 29—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, testified today that Ex-Rep. May (D) Ky., asked him to intervene in the court martial of Capt. Joseph Garsson, son of war contractor Murray Garsson.

Eisenhower was a defense witness at the conspiracy trial of the former house military committee chairman and Henry and Murray Garsson.

A ruling by Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut prevented the general from saying whether May's letters resulted in any action on his part.

Eisenhower also substantiated testimony by Secretary of State Marshall that the Army's need for eight-inch shells were dropping in 1945, about the time that May vigorously protested a cut-back on a shell contract held by the Garsson munitions combine.

Novel School Teaches Tobacco Auction Talk

By International News Service
KINSTON, N. C. — Lured by the romantic chant of the tobacco auctioneer, more than a score of young men are enrolled in a very unique school for salesmen in Kinston.

The institution teaches the youths how to chant the fast-slurred sing-song garble of the tobacco auctioneer.

The students learn right at the scene of the rapid-bidding auction. It is the Joe Cutrell school for auctioneers at the Knott warehouse in Kinston. Cutrell and his associate, B. E. Dale, Jr., have started the trainees on a four-week course which is intended to turn out a new batch of quick-eyed, quick-tongued sales callers sometimes in May.

The tutor said that the first response to his school was so good that he was thinking of having a morning series of classes as well as an afternoon session.

THE STUDENT criers train right on the warehouse floor, but not while the sales are in progress. The tobacco sales season has ended and that leaves Cutrell and Dale with plenty of time to teach their earnest charges. The workshop is the warehouse and the auctioneer is the student who holds an imaginary sale before other members of the class. Cutrell, a veteran with 32 years of auctioning experience, said that he didn't expect all the students to come out with honors. However, he said he was impressed with a number of the future auctioneers.

The veteran salesman said that he learned from his father who had 47 years of tobacco experience.

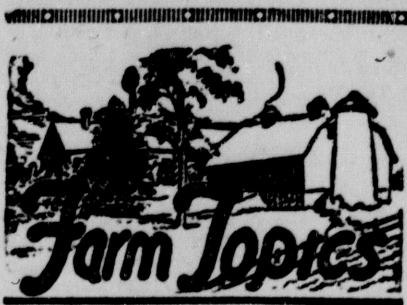

HE LISTED four necessary traits of a good crier: keen eyesight; a quick alert mind, a good voice; and an even temper. He observed that those men who have a real desire to become tobacco auctioneers will, in all probability, make rapid progress. However, "the curious" soon will fall by the wayside and give up the strenuous routine.

The initial classes will be devoted completely to the fundamentals. These include rehearsing the bids and learning the rate of bid indicated by a raised finger, a wink, a nod or other signs significant at tobacco sales.

The first thing the students learned was that the bidding jumps a quarter of a cent between $6 and $15 CWT, and one-half cent between $15 to $25 CWT. From $25 on up the bids go a full cent per pound.

CUTRELL pointed out that the jargon is not routine for the trade, but rather it varies with the individual hawker. The monotone is suitable for fast chanting, making it easy for the huckster to keep up with the peculiar leaf auctions.

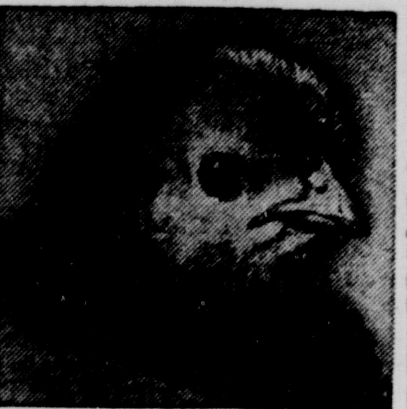

Cuthrell explained that it takes

Chicks will seldom be cannibalistic if provided with proper brooder and range space, correct temperature and air control and a balanced ration, properly fed. They must be kept alert and active. Only the mistreated, sluggish chick will turn to cannibalism.

While the chicks must be comfortable, the temperature should be reduced gradually.

Use a good starting mash. There is no substitute for the best for starting baby chicks.

Baby chicks must be managed right to prevent cannibalism.

Give them all they will eat at all times and provide plenty of eating troughs. When the chicks are four to five weeks old they may be given grain, and made to scratch for it.

A good range and shelter should be provided. Pasture such as bluegrass, alfalfa or lespedeza will lower the feed cost and make the chickens take on economical gain. Swiss chard, kale, Chinese cabbage or rape may be planted and the leaves pulled and fed to the chicks. Alfalfa, clover or other grasses may be chopped and fed fresh, or alfalfa leaf meal utilized to aid in proper health and growth.

years of experience to produce the smooth rippling-flow of sound that now has become associated with one particular brand of cigarettes. He said that the graduates of his school will not be lingual successes after only a month of practice. He declared that only after practicing the fundamentals will they become fluent criers.

BLUE RIBBON 9 SQUEEZES OUT WIN IN EIGHTH

Williamsport Merchants Lose 4-3 Night Softball League Game

Blue Ribbon grabbed a Night Softball league victory over Williamsport Merchants in the eighth inning of a game at Ted Lewis park Wednesday night.

Jim Toole hit a triple and slid home a moment later when the Williamsport catcher let a pitch get away from him. Toole's run gave the Blue Ribbon club a 4-3 win.

WILLIAMSPORT took the lead in the fourth inning with two runs. The Merchants made it 3-0 in the sixth. In the top of the seventh Blue Ribbon scored three times to tie the score.

Blue Ribbon got eight hits off Bill Elliott. Williamsport counted four off 'Pug' Fowler, but used them to good advantage. Fowler fanned 11; Elliott four.

Thursday night Isaly's team makes its first start of the season, opposing Container.

Friday night a doubleheader is scheduled. Isaly's and Mumaw's Market are slated to meet at 7 p. m. with Tarlton and VFW clashing about 8:30 p. m.

BIRDS DROP TO AA BASEMENT AFTER LOSING

By International News Service Buckets and buckets of white-wash decorated the American Association picture today.

In the only games played yesterday, Louisville and Toledo won shutout victories over Columbus and Indianapolis respectively.

The weatherman, who is getting very proficient, indeed, with his paint brush, calcimined scheduled Milwaukee-Minneapolis and Kansas City-St. Paul conflicts. Cold weather interfered in each of the twin cities.

Just to make it unanimous, association president Frank Lane tossed in a decision against Nick Cullup, Milwaukee pilot, who had protested that St. Paul made no honest effort to resume play after a fifth inning rain last Sunday. Lane ruled the game a postponed contest and ordered it replayed.

Louisville's Emory Rudd and Wes Bailey combined to pitch a three-hit, 2-to-0 shutout against Columbus. The loss tumbled Columbus into the league basement, a familiar resting place since the Birds spent the last two seasons there.

Bob Raney of Toledo granted five hits as the Mud Hens defeated Louisville, 5 to 0. Whitey Platt homered with the bases full for the Hens in a big third inning uprising that finished Hank Gornicki, making his first start for Indianapolis.

28 Drivers Set To Start Speedway Race Friday

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29 — Twenty-eight daredevils will start a roaring quest tomorrow for the gold and glory of the 31st Memorial Day 500-mile auto race at Indianapolis Speedway.

More than 165,000 fans are expected to witness the international speed sweepstakes.

Normally 33 cars start the classic event. This year, however, a fight between the Speedway management and the American Society of Professional Automobile Racing delayed the entry of many cars and famous drivers.

Twenty racers in the field were entered before the April 15 deadline. The remainder were accepted after that date when the Speedway and ASPAR compromised their differences over prize money.

Four of the cars in the starting lineup have never before raced in competition. These are the new Novi-Governor special, developed by Bud Winfield, La Canada, Cal.; two cars built by Lou Moore, Ventura, Cal., for the Blue Crown Spark Plug company; and an Offenhauser entered and driven by Les Anderson, Portland, Ore.

The widely-heralded Mercedes Benz, recently brought from Europe by Thomas Lee of Don Lee, Inc., Los Angeles, will be participating in its first U. S. race in the event.

The car reportedly was built for Hitler and is a twin of a record-breaking racer which sped 248-miles an hour on a straight-away course in Europe.

Four Italian-made racers will start. Ted Horn, Paterson, N. H., and Russ Snowberger, Detroit, will drive Maseratis. Alfa-Romeo specials will be piloted by Walt Brown, Massapeque, N. Y., and Ken Fowler, Dayton, O. Fowler will start in the third row in the lineup.

Others who qualified were Duke Dinsmore, Osbourne, O.; Cy Marshall, Jacksonville, Fla.; Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill.; Charles Vanacker, Freddy Agabashian, Paul Russo, Al Miller, Henry Banks, Duke Nalon and Joie Chitwood. Dinsmore's position in the starting lineup is the ninth row.

A fund of $6,000 was made available in February, 1940, to start research on the atomic bomb, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. This was the beginning of the $2,000,000,000 expenditure necessary to complete the bomb.

ASHVILLE REDS TO ENTERTAIN GREENFIELD NINE

Two New Players Signed By South Central Ohio League Leaders

Ashville's Reds will defend their first place ranking in the South Central Ohio Baseball league again Sunday.

Trying to knock the Reds off their high perch this week will be Greenfield's Athletics, low in the SCO standings but a team which has shown plenty of scrap in games to date.

Lancaster had lots of trouble two weeks ago defeating the Athletics 3-0. The Greenfield team has been improving and probably will cause plenty of trouble in Ashville when the Athletics oppose the Reds Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Ashville community park.

MANAGER Carl Gulick Thursday announced the signing of two new players. Glen Belcher, outstanding Columbus infielder and heavy hitter, is to join the Reds Sunday. Herbert Russell, Columbus outfielder and punch hitter, also is slated to be on hand Sunday.

Manager Gulick was undecided on his starting pitcher Sunday. It will be either Russ Gregg, Leonard Hornsby or Bill Black.

Rest of the lineup probably will be about the same. Belcher and Russell probably will break into the lineup but in whose place Manager Gulick was unable to say Thursday.

BLUE RIBBON 9 SQUEEZES OUT WIN IN EIGHTH

Williamsport Merchants Lose 4-3 Night Softball League Game

Blue Ribbon grabbed a Night Softball league victory over Williamsport Merchants in the eighth inning of a game at Ted Lewis park Wednesday night.

Jim Toole hit a triple and slid home a moment later when the Williamsport catcher let a pitch get away from him. Toole's run gave the Blue Ribbon club a 4-3 win.

WILLIAMSPORT took the lead in the fourth inning with two runs. The Merchants made it 3-0 in the sixth. In the top of the seventh Blue Ribbon scored three times to tie the score.

Blue Ribbon got eight hits off Bill Elliott. Williamsport counted four off 'Pug' Fowler, but used them to good advantage. Fowler fanned 11; Elliott four.

Thursday night Italy's team makes its first start of the season, opposing Contender.

Friday night a doubleheader is scheduled. Italy's and Mummaw's Market are slated to meet at 7 p. m. with Tarlton and VFW clashing about 8:30 p. m.

BIRDS DROP TO AA BASEMENT AFTER LOSING

By International News Service Buckets and buckets of white-wash decorated the American Association picture today.

In the only games played yesterday, Louisville and Toledo won shutout victories over Columbus and Indianapolis respectively.

The weatherman, who is getting very proficient, indeed, with his paint brush, calcimined scheduled Milwaukee-Minneapolis and Kansas City-St. Paul conflicts. Cold weather interfered in each of the twin cities.

Just to make it unanimous, association president Frank Lane tossed in a decision against Nick Cullip, Milwaukee pilot, who had protested that St. Paul made no honest effort to resume play after a fifth inning rain last Sunday. Lane ruled the game a postponed contest and ordered it replayed.

Louisville's Emory Rudd and Wes Bailey combined to pitch a three-hit, 2-to-0 shutout against Columbus. The loss tumbled Columbus into the league basement, a familiar resting place since the Birds spent the last two seasons there.

Bob Roney of Toledo granted five hits as the Mud Hens defeated Louisville, 5 to 0. Whitey Platt homered with the bases full for the Hens in a big third inning uprising that finished Hank Gornicki, making his first start for Indianapolis.

28 Drivers Set To Start Speedway Race Friday

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29 — Twenty-eight daredevils will start a roaring quest tomorrow for the gold and glory of the 31st Memorial Day 500-mile auto race at Indianapolis Speedway. More than 165,000 fans are expected to witness the international speed sweepstakes. Normally 33 cars start the classic event. This year, however, a fight between the Speedway management and the American Society of Professional Automobile Racing delayed the entry of many cars and famous drivers.

CRAZY NATIONAL RACE GOES ON

Dodgers On Top Now; Cards Down Reds To Gain On League Leaders

NEW YORK, May 29 — The "kiss of death" pattern continues in the daffy, standing-scrambled National League race.

Three clubs within the past three days have achieved the top-rung only to fall by the wayside the following day. Apparently, a first place berth is like a binge—it's a wonderful feeling but it gives you a terrific headache the next day.

On Monday, the Giants, fresh from a batting triad in the treacherous west were sitting on top of the senior loop roost. Tuesday night, the Dodgers mocked their prowess with a stinging 7-to-3 setback.

Chicago, jauntily climbed to the top. Wednesday night, they were overcome with the hitters and a three-run Pittsburgh rally. Today, the league-leaders of the day before rest rather dazedly in second place, still bewildered by the 7-to-6 defeat the Pirates hung on them.

Today, the Dodgers occupy first by virtue of a lusty batting spree of 19 hits, including three home-runs which culminated in a 14 to 2 rout of the somewhat deflated Giants. But if the race continues its weird course, there probably will be a new leader by sundown today. The Brooks tangle with the Giants in the rubber game of their three-game series and the Cubs hook up with the Pirates in the final of their three-game set.

THE ONLY teams which profited by the day's events besides the Dodgers were the second division clubs.

The Cardinals, trying desperately to revive the winning habit, gained a game on two of the three top teams by capturing a 4-to-2 night tilt with the Cincinnati Reds on the strength of Enos Slaughter's three run homer in the seventh inning.

St. Louis is now six games off the pace, but more important, they are only one-half game out of the cellar. July 4 of last year, they were seven games out of first, and the pennant chase was not the topsy-turvy scramble it is now.

Another second division club, the Phillies, gained a notch by topping the fourth place Braves 4 to 2.

IN THE AMERICAN League, the league-leading Detroit Tigers lost ground because rain postponed their scheduled clash with the Cleveland Indians.

The New York Yankees, rallying from an early 4-to-2 deficit, banged out 13 hits for a 9-to-5 victory over the Washington Senators in a night game.

Boston's Red Sox, stayed in third place, two percentage points behind the Yankees, although they fashioned a decisive 9-to-2 triumph against the listless Philadelphia Athletics.

To climax the bizarre tinge in major league happenings, the game between the St. Louis Browns and the Chicago White Sox was postponed because of cold weather.

MORE PAY, LESS WORKING TIME ASKED BY LEWIS

Increased Miners' Welfare Funds Also Big Point In Coal Program

WASHINGTON, May 29 — The United Mine Workers Journal today disclosed officially for the first time the five basic demands which John L. Lewis has served on the coal operators in negotiations for a new mine wage contract.

The demands are: (1) an increase in the miners' welfare and retirement fund; (2) mine safety; (3) increase in wages; (4) shorter hours; (5) increased lunch time from 15 to 30 minutes.

The journal said that "nothing has been agreed upon to date, but progress has been made in clarifying the issues."

LEWIS SUMMONED his 30-odd district presidents and the UMW's 250-man policy committee into session this morning to report on the status of the bargaining talks with northern and southern bituminous mine owners.

Government control of the bituminous mines ends June 30 and the negotiators are seeking a new private contract by that date.

The journal's disclosure that Lewis is seeking increased wages plus shorter hours indicates that the UMW president will not be satisfied with the national pattern of 15 cents an hour established in steel, automobiles and other industries.

Previously, it was reported that Lewis wanted an eight-hour day and 40-hour week at the same pay as for a nine-hour day and a 54-hour week.

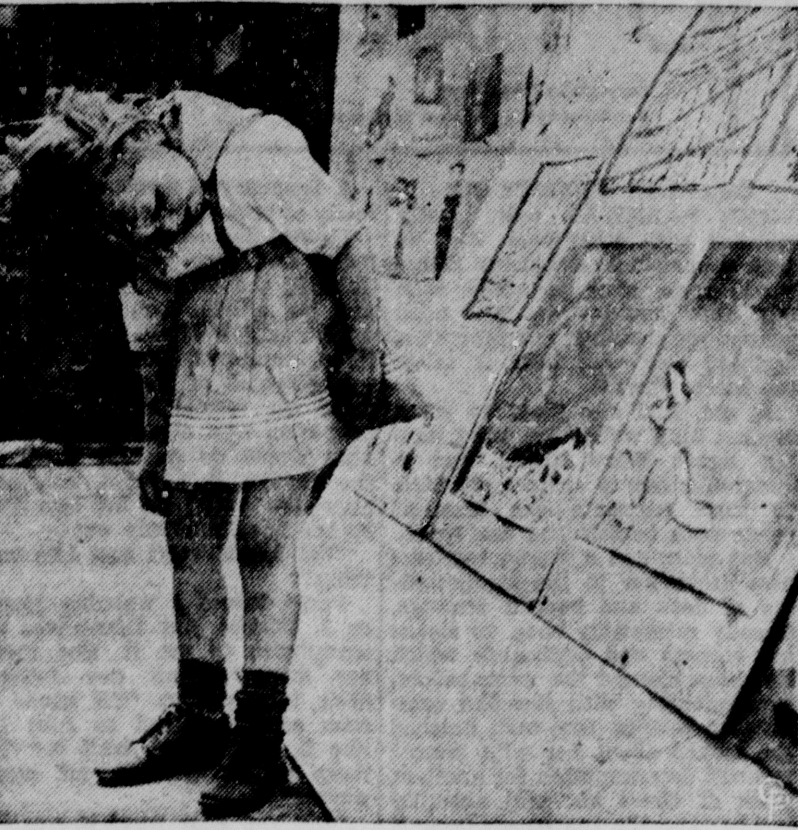

Lewis reportedly is asking for an increase in the operators' contributions to the mine welfare fund from five to 10 cents a ton. The fund already totals approximately twenty-one million dollars.

On mine safety, the UMW president is seeking retention of the uniform safety code contained in the government-union contract.

Operators' sources estimated recently that to grant all Lewis' new demands would add about 450 million dollars annually to coal labor costs.

TRAINMAN KILLED — CINCINNATI, O., May 29 — A New York Central railroad engineer was scalded to death by live steam Tuesday in the river-side yards at Cincinnati when another locomotive practically cut his switching engine in two. The engineer, Harry Tolmie, 62, Cincinnati, was trapped in the cab of his engine after it was hit by another locomotive driven by Fred Dennis. The impact split the steam pipes of the engine and live steam poured into the cab. The fireman, Howard Walbrink, 25, jumped to safety.

Want to Run a "Collective" Farm?

Was reading the other day about the "collective" farms they have in certain countries. It seems the folks who run them have plenty of help... good hours... and the best equipment.

Sounds pretty nice—till you learn that the "farmer" doesn't own his land, or even farm it, in our sense. He takes orders from the state; produces whatever they want him to produce, at prices they set. Even his off-hours are spent according to state regulations. No, that would never go here.

We're willing to work hard, but we like to farm the land our own way, put our own value on the crops, and relax as we like—if only with a temperate, companionable glass of beer.

MORE PAY, LESS WORKING TIME ASKED BY LEWIS

Increased Miners' Welfare Funds Also Big Point In Coal Program

WASHINGTON, May 29 — The United Mine Workers Journal today disclosed officially for the first time the five basic demands which John L. Lewis has served on the coal operators in negotiations for a new mine wage contract.

The demands are: (1) an increase in the miners' welfare and retirement fund; (2) mine safety; (3) increase in wages; (4) shorter hours; (5) increased lunch time from 15 to 30 minutes.

The journal said that "nothing has been agreed upon to date, but progress has been made in clarifying the issues."

LEWIS SUMMONED his 30-odd district presidents and the UMW's 250-man policy committee into session this morning to report on the status of the bargaining talks with northern and southern bituminous mine owners.

Government control of the bituminous mines ends June 30 and the negotiators are seeking a new private contract by that date.

The journal's disclosure that Lewis is seeking increased wages plus shorter hours indicates that the UMW president will not be satisfied with the national pattern of 15 cents an hour established in steel, automobiles and other industries.

Previously, it was reported that Lewis wanted an eight-hour day and 40-hour week at the same pay as for a nine-hour day and a 54-hour week.

Lewis reportedly is asking for an increase in the operators' contributions to the mine welfare fund from five to 10 cents a ton. The fund already totals approximately twenty-one million dollars.

On mine safety, the UMW president is seeking retention of the uniform safety code contained in the government-union contract.

Operators' sources estimated recently that to grant all Lewis' new demands would add about 450 million dollars annually to coal labor costs.

TRAINMAN KILLED

CINCINNATI, O., May 29 — A New York Central railroad engineer was scalded to death by live steam Tuesday in the river-side yards at Cincinnati when another locomotive practically cut his switching engine in two. The engineer, Harry Tolmie, 62, Cincinnati, was trapped in the cab of his engine after it was hit by another locomotive driven by Fred Dennis. The impact split the steam pipes of the engine and live steam poured into the cab. The fireman, Howard Walbrink, 25, jumped to safety.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

COMMENCEMENT season has arrived. On high school and college platforms, from one end of the country to the other, orators are holding forth before the young men and women about to be graduated. They give them all manner of good advice. Many talk down to the candidates. Others exhort them on themes far removed from what is on the minds of the young people. In both cases, those for whom the exercises are planned come away retaining very little of what the speaker said. They are not able to repeat it next day. A year or two later most of them will have forgotten who the speaker was.

A rural high school in Perry, Iowa, has solved the problem. It is not having a commencement speaker this year. The graduates and their guests, instead, will watch a half-hour locally filmed motion picture of the senior class. At any rate the boys and girls of that Iowa school assembled there for their sheepskins will be interested in the program—it is about themselves.

This sounds, however, more like class day than commencement. And the elders will hope that just as they receive their diplomas, some one in a position of respect or authority will give the students a brief but strong word of inspiration. Jollity and class feeling are fine. But the day of graduation is a grave one for most students. It marks transition from childhood into maturity. They will not remember nor heed a long, solemn, highbrow address. But they will treasure in their hearts one or two keen and intelligent statements. Young people are more serious than the elders sometimes realize. They appreciate going out of school on a note of high and important endeavor.

MEMORIAL DAY

SOONER OR later, if our faith is strong enough, there will come a day when war shall be known no more. It must be so if our human race is to survive. Mankind must make complete and permanent peace, or there will soon be no more of him. Then, if man has really seen the light of civilization, and the wise have dedicated their lives to it, and man abandons his warlike past and present, may come the greatest of all Memorial Days.

Meantime, we have the present observance. It should start as a day of love, of memory, of heartfelt gratitude to all those dead who, we hope, have not died in vain. It should proceed through the pleasant holiday of Spring, deepening into Summer, in which man may feel himself at one with nature and with all other men in this beautiful world. It should not be a day of sorrow, but rather of freedom and of joy for all Americans. It is a day on which we honor with happiness all those who have given us our liberty.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to find sunshine, so was all smiles throughout the regular morning tour of inspection and breakfast. Cranked the wagon and with a song in my heart did head downtown. Passed through the south end and gave thought to the petition now in circulation for a south end fire department. And then what will council do. Prompted by need, of course, but also spurred by council's action in voting the death of the fire alarm system. Many folk in the south end have no phones. Some have told me that their phone orders have been standing for months and that they have no idea when their orders will be filled.

Elimination of the fire alarm system may have been wise from the viewpoint of council. But I'd like to bet a cup of coffee that the city will be forced to buy a system ere long. If my house is on fire I want quicker communication with the fire department than by phone. Why, I'd die a thousand deaths while waiting for central to answer. I die a few hundred now on occasion when I try to put through unimportant calls. Anyway, the south end is entitled to more certain fire protection than it is getting. A delayed phone call and a long freight train on the South end street crossings and we could have a disastrous fire. I don't blame the south enders for being up in arms. And congratulations to Councilman Horn for opposing the elimination of the fire alarm system.

Watch President Truman's popularity rating soar in the next vote outlook report. Not because of anything political he has done, but because of that remark that his mother sat up with him many times and that he now could sit up with her when she needs him. An honest and fine sentiment. And, because we Americans are a sentimental lot, many of us will vote for him because he is good to his mother. Well, he should be good to his mother. All of us should. But being good to our mothers does not qualify us to be president. Hardly!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 29—It passed sensationally unadvertised by the usual publicity, but the CIO PAC started up quietly about a month ago. Together with an affiliated Ickes organization and one other similar pressure group, a leftwing political action revival was started. On the CIO plane alone it calculated raising $6,000,000 to "reach into key congressional districts" to reverse the popular trend immediately. Even some good clipping services in Washington missed the significance if not the whole news at the time and cannot even now find out about a more recent news promotion meeting of CIO leaders with certain labor editors.

Not until a certain editorial group investigated to ascertain the source of an unexplainable avalanche of criticism against it lately did the matter achieve proper significance. And since then not a few congressmen and most publicity organizations in town have been trying to find out what is happening. Particularly are congressmen who are suffering the severity of union pressure back home looking into the matter.

As nearly as I can piece it together largely from an investigation by a congressional authority and CIO sources, here is what happened:

CIO rather fully advertised its proposed revival campaign in a weekly news letter May 4, making no particular secret of the matter, sending its letter even to some congressmen. Their political action phase had been dormant since an act of congress made their financial activities in this respect legally difficult. But at a CIO PAC meeting a month ago, they decided to raise $1 each from 6,000,000 members to "send field workers into the key congressional districts" and otherwise "rally the unions" and naturally also the public politically on a local basis (repeat local basis.) They thought such action necessary because the labor reform bill was going against them.

Labor editors were called in, according to one report made by a survey service. The editors discussed for three hours plans to stimulate the campaign in news columns, presumably theirs on a local basis, which would not come to national attention much. Unanimous agreement was made on a course of action. Speakers stressed the point that CIO political action machinery must be perfected to retaliate against the anti-labor legislators in congress and to turn public sentiment.

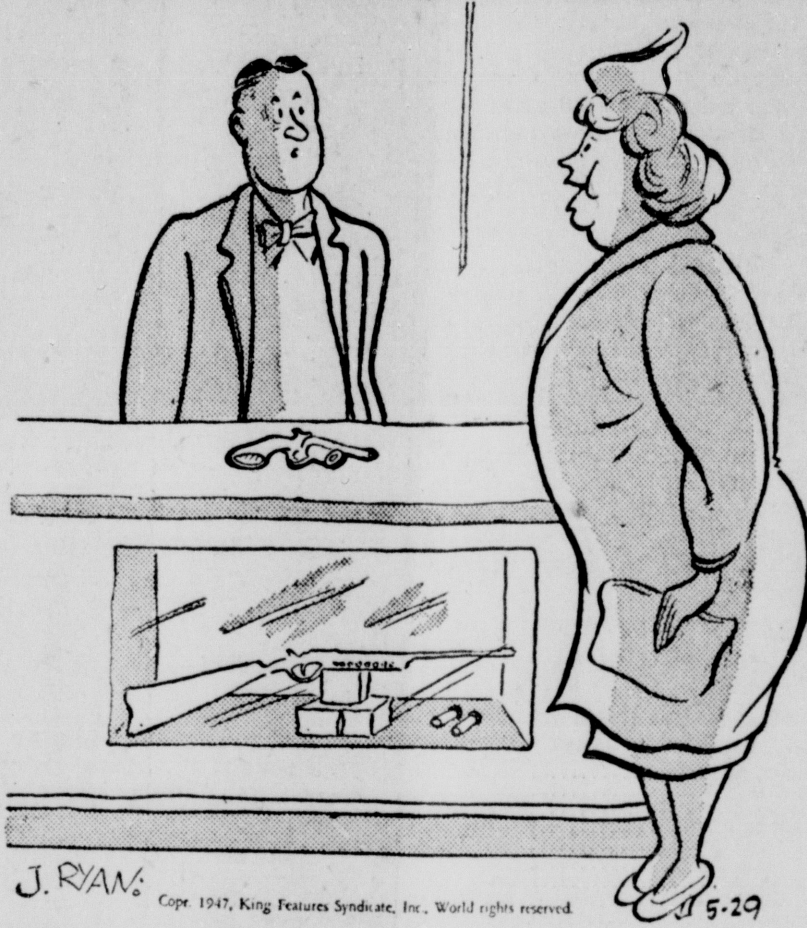

PAC Director Jack Kroll (who took Sidney Hillman's place) made a speech according to another report from a CIO source, saying he intends to build PAC on a permanent basis now, presumably locally and thus generally un-noticed. He dispelled any suggestion that it folded after the last election. One who was present ventured to quote David J. MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the steel workers and PAC, in this report. He has Mr. MacDonald saying to the meeting: "You know what is happening to us on capitol hill and throughout the states. It makes you shudder and wonder whether we will be able to cooperate our international unions. But I am not willing to wait and find out. Let's be in a position to change that whole situation in 1948. I think we can do it."

EVERY now and then the physician will be called on to attend a middle-aged person who has suddenly been stricken with a pain of terrific intensity in the pit of the stomach.

If this is accompanied by a rapid, feeble pulse, swelling of the bowel, tenderness over the abdomen, rapid breathing, vomiting, a below-normal temperature and, above all, by cyanosis or blueness of the lips, the doctor will keep in mind that he may have a case of acute pancreatitis to deal with.

Severe Inflammation

This condition results when the pancreas, a gland within the abdomen concerned in the digestion of sugars and starches, becomes severely inflamed. It constitutes one of the gravest of emergencies. Sometimes it may be so severe as to prove fatal within an hour but in the majority of cases, proper treatment will forestall death and bring about recovery.

Men are more often stricken than women. Those who develop it are likely to be somewhat overweight and to have high blood pressure. The most important factor relating to the development of this condition seems to be gallstones. According to Dr. John Morley of Manchester, England, gallstones are present in 60 per cent or more of those who suffer from acute pancreatitis.

Not Easy to Diagnose

Acute pancreatitis is not an easy condition to diagnose because there are so many other troubles which give similar, though not identical, symptoms. These include gallbladder inflammation, the enlarging or breaking through the wall of the stomach of an ulcer, blocking of the passageway through the small intestine, and even coronary thrombosis, that is the formation of a blood clot in one of the arteries which supply the heart muscle with blood.

Treatment by Operation

Formerly it was the practice to treat acute pancreatitis by operation, that is opening the abdomen and draining the pancreas. Today, however, it seems generally agreed that such operation is of little, if any, value in most cases. As a rule a different type of treatment will be more successful. The patient, of course, is put to bed at complete rest, and fluids are given by injection into a vein continually. A salt solution or a fluid part of the blood known as plasma may be employed. It is suggested that the giving of a sugar solution, such as glucose, may be dangerous.

Since gallstones seem to be the most important factor in producing acute pancreatitis, it would appear important that gallstones be recognized when they are present and that they be removed by means of surgical operation.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

THE PARKWAY was usually crowded with other cars. But, as dusk deepened to darkness, Diane would seem shut in alone with Bill. Bill would draw her head against his shoulder. "Comfortable, darling? Let's not talk. It takes too much effort."

It did, and she liked to relax against him, watch the small harbor lights below them, feel a ghost of a breeze against her face. In such moments she was at peace with herself and the world. But mornings a vague restlessness drove her to the straightening of desk and bureau drawers, already reasonably neat, to cleaning corners and cupboards which had been cleaned the week before, experimenting with new and complicated recipes. One task finished she looked about her with almost feverish determination for another. Then at times her zeal abruptly left her and the apartment became too confining, and she put on her coolest dress, went down to her car and drove out to the open country. Over any highway except the Duell Road; resolutely not the Duell Road!

Until one afternoon when the desire was too strong to be resisted. She came to the creek, the swimming hole, the white house against the hillside. Its blinds were closed, its shed doors. They'd go, the woman and the crippled mother and the little boy. But the "For Sale" sign still hung on the post by the road. Diane looked from it to the house, sat with her hands tight on the steering wheel, and looked for a long time at the house. But she did not get out of the car; she swung abruptly around and retraced her way to the city.

She did not go back to the apartment. She turned into Oak Avenue and stopped at her father's house. Paula'd be home. Paula never went anywhere. Lucky Paula, who had no puzzles to work out, thought Diane, running up the steps to the door.

Today she found her father with Paula and Paula packing two big open bags. "I've got to see a man in London," J. Emmet said to Diane. "London! And Paula was calmly examining the heels of a pair of J. Emmet's socks before she folded them. "I'd be throwing things in," thought Diane with a deep, irresistible envy.

Her father's shrewd eyes saw it on her face. "Come along with us, chick. We're only staying over a sailing. Say the word and I'll wire for another cabin." He added, gruffly: "That young fellow of yours oughtn't to object to you giving a little time to your old dad!"

Diane was too excited at his suggestion to resent the way he spoke of Bill. She cried: "Dad, I'd love to go!"

It was instantly reasonable, perfectly possible. Three weeks wasn't long. Bill had this new case to work on; he could stay at his mother's.

Diane had not expected this. She stared at Bill, not able for a moment to believe he was serious. Then her eyes blazed. "My condition! You make me hate—being this way! As if I were a breeder! As if I, myself, didn't count! Why, girls go on doing everything, just the same. Joan Dexter rode horseback last fall right up to the day her baby was born. Phyllis Mitchell went into a swimming tournament—"

"I'm not interested in what they did," Bill put in, walking past Diane to the bureau. "They weren't having my son!"

Diane laughed shrilly. "Your son! I suppose it's a girl you'll throw it out—"

Bill wheeled around, came back to her, concerned and conciliating.

J. Emmet was smiling now. "Be ready to take the morning plane?"

Flying! She could do it a million times and each would have the thrill of the first time; shipboard and its gaiety. London! Diane's mind raced over all the trip offered, caught at details of her going, disposed of them. She could press her formal things tonight; that spun wool dress of her troupeau would do for day wear on the voyage, in London, too, perhaps; she could have her hair done on the boat, first day out—

"Tell Bill it won't cost him anything!"

Paula turned a warning glance on J. Emmet. But Diane was too enraptured to see it. She threw her arms around her father's neck, hugged him. "I'll phone as soon as I've talked to Bill! It's like it used to be, isn't it? The three of us dashing off somewhere!"

"Did you hear what she said?" demanded J. Emmet of Paula after Diane had rushed away. "And the way she said it?"

But Paula let J. Emmet stand scowling down at his cigar and went on quietly with her packing. Diane had her clothes scattered over the bedroom when Bill came in. He found her sitting on the edge of her bed, considering a green chiffon evening gown of last winter.

"What's all this, Di?"

She ran to him. "Bill, Dad and Paula are going to London! They're flying to New York tomorrow and sailing—really I don't know on what boat or just what hour. And Dad's asked me to go along!" She stood before him, her face radiant over the filmy green of the dress still in her hands.

"You've said you'd go?" Bill's tone was sharp with surprise.

She thought it was his dislike of her spending any of her father's money; she cried, impatiently: "Bill, forget your pride, just for once! After all, I'm still Dad's daughter!"

Bill stiffened. "It happens, in this instance, that I'm thinking of your condition. You might be seasick and you're certain to exhaust yourself sightseeing. I consider it within my rights, under the circumstances, to forbid even a plane trip!"

Diane had not expected this. She stared at Bill, not able for a moment to believe he was serious. Then her eyes blazed. "My condition! You make me hate—being this way! As if I were a breeder! As if I, myself, didn't count! Why, girls go on doing everything, just the same. Joan Dexter rode horseback last fall right up to the day her baby was born. He put his arms around her. "And you'll see my objections to such a trip very reasonable when you quiet down."

Suddenly Diane was quiet. But it was a too-still quiet. She moved away from him. "Dinner will be ready when you are." She put the dress on the bed, went out of the room.

After dinner she telephoned to her father. "I can't go, Dad. There are major obstacles. Have a grand time."

Over J. Emmet's growl she hurried a last goodbye and hung up the receiver.

As she turned from the telephone Bill put his hands on her shoulders, held her a little away from him to search her face with a stern questioning. "Are you sorry you married me, Di?"

"No." Then Diane threw herself against him, clung to him. It was frightening to hear it in words. "No," she repeated against his shoulder.

He held her, gently, and her panic subsided. Later, sitting close to him in the car in the dark of the parkway at the waterfront she said: "I'm really not crushed, Bill, about not going. It seemed a grand idea at the moment, but I'd have missed you terribly!" She had had time to realize that; she wanted him to know that it was the impossibility of separating herself from him that had brought her to reason.

But Bill said: "If you told your father how things are he never would have suggested it. Don't you think, Di, it's time—"

Diane shook her head. "You're funny, Di! With no mother of your own to go to, I should think you'd like to talk it over with mine!"

"That's what I DON'T want to do," Diane cried, before she could check it. She was sorry, instantly, for she saw Bill look puzzled and a little hurt. And there was no use in trying to explain to him her reluctance. "Anyway, not for awhile, Bill," she added, pleadingly.

Bill laughed. "Well, you're going to have a good time out of it when you do, Di. Mother'll bring down the old cradle from the attic. It's one of those old wooden ones with rockers. I don't know how many Ardens have used it, but it goes a long way back. There's a silver mug around somewhere, with 'William Beresford Arden' engraved on it and the year eighteen hundred and fifty-four. Mother'll dig that up—"

"And my family will supply the silver spoon!" But she caught that back in time, sighing inwardly, a little ashamed and wearied by her perversity.

"A good time," Bill had said, and she was hating it before it began.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

COMMENCEMENT season has arrived. On high school and college platforms, from one end of the country to the other, orators are holding forth before the young men and women about to be graduated. They give them all manner of good advice. Many talk down to the candidates. Others exhort them on themes far removed from what is on the minds of the young people. In both cases, those for whom the exercises are planned come away retaining very little of what the speaker said. They are not able to repeat it next day. A year or two later most of them will have forgotten who the speaker was.

A rural high school in Perry, Iowa, has solved the problem. It is not having a commencement speaker this year. The graduates and their guests, instead, will watch a half-hour locally filmed motion picture of the senior class. At any rate the boys and girls of that Iowa school assembled there for their sheepskins will be interested in the program—it is about themselves.

This sounds, however, more like class day than commencement. And the elders will hope that just as they receive their diplomas, some one in a position of respect or authority will give the students a brief but strong word of inspiration. Jollity and class feeling are fine. But the day of graduation is a grave one for most students. It marks transition from childhood into maturity. They will not remember nor heed a long, solemn, highbrow address. But they will treasure in their hearts one or two keen and intelligent statements. Young people are more serious than the elders sometimes realize. They appreciate going out of school on a note of high and important endeavor.

MEMORIAL DAY

SOONER OR later, if our faith is strong enough, there will come a day when war shall be known no more. It must be so if our human race is to survive. Mankind must make complete and permanent peace, or there will soon be no more of him. Then, if man has really seen the light of civilization, and the wise have dedicated their lives to it, and man abandons his warlike past and present, may come the greatest of all Memorial Days.

Meantime, we have the present observance. It should start as a day of love, of memory, of heartfelt gratitude to all those dead who, we hope, have not died in vain. It should proceed through the pleasant holiday of Spring, deepening into Summer, in which man may feel himself at one with nature and with all other men in this beautiful world. It should not be a day of sorrow, but rather of freedom and of joy for all Americans. It is a day on which we honor with happiness all those who have given us our liberty.

Passed through the south end and gave thought to the petition now in circulation for a south end fire department. And then what will council do. Prompted by need, of course, but also spurred by council's action in voting the death of the fire alarm system. Many folk in the south end have no phones. Some have told me that their phone orders have been standing for months and that they have no idea when their orders will be filled.

Elimination of the fire alarm system may have been wise from the viewpoint of council. But I'd like to bet a cup of coffee that the city will be forced to buy a system ere long. If my house is on fire I want quicker communication with the fire department than by phone. Why, I'd die a thousand deaths while waiting for central to answer. I die a few hundred now on occasion when I try to put through unimportant calls. Anyway, the south end is entitled to more certain fire protection than it is getting. A delayed phone call and a long freight train on the South end street crossings and we could have a disastrous fire. I don't blame the south enders for being up in arms. And congratulations to Councilman Horn for opposing the elimination of the fire alarm system.

Not because of anything political he has done, but because of that remark that his mother sat up with him many times and that he now could sit up with her when she needs him. An honest and fine sentiment. And, because we Americans are a sentimental lot, many of us will vote for him because he is good to his mother. Well, he should be good to his mother. All of us should. But being good to our mothers does not qualify us to be president. Hardly!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 29—It passed sensationally unadvertised by the usual publicity, but the CIO PAC started up quietly about a month ago. Together with an affiliated Ickes organization and one other similar pressure group, a leftwing political action revival was started. On the CIO plane alone it calculated raising $6,000,000 to "reach into key congressional districts" to reverse the popular trend immediately. Even some good clipping services in Washington missed the significance if not the whole news at the time and cannot even now find out about a more recent news promotion meeting of CIO leaders with certain labor editors.

Not until a certain editorial group investigated to ascertain the source of an unexplainable avalanche of criticism against it lately did the matter achieve proper significance. And since then not a few congressmen and most publicity organizations in town have been trying to find out what is happening. Particularly are congressmen who are suffering the severity of union pressure back home looking into the matter.

As nearly as I can piece it together largely from an investigation by a congressional authority and CIO sources, here is what happened:

CIO rather fully advertised its proposed revival campaign in a weekly news letter May 4, making no particular secret of the matter, sending its letter even to some congressmen. Their political action phase had been dormant since an act of congress made their financial activities in this respect legally difficult. But at a CIO PAC meeting a month ago, they decided to raise $1 each from 6,000,000 members to "send field workers into the key congressional districts" and otherwise "rally the unions" and naturally also the public politically on a local basis (repeat local basis.) They thought such action necessary because the labor reform bill was going against them.

Labor editors were called in, according to one report made by a survey service. The editors discussed for three hours plans to stimulate the campaign in news columns, presumably theirs on a local basis, which would not come to national attention much. Unanimous agreement was made on a course of action. Speakers stressed the point that CIO political action machinery must be perfected to retaliate against the anti-labor legislators in congress and to turn public sentiment.

PAC Director Jack Kroll (who took Sidney Hillman's place) made a speech according to another report from a CIO source, saying he intends to build PAC on a permanent basis now, presumably locally and thus generally un-noticed. He dispelled any suggestion that it folded after the last election. One who was present ventured to quote David J. MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the steel workers and PAC, in this report. He has Mr. MacDonald saying to the meeting: "You know what is happening to us on Capitol Hill and throughout the states. It makes you shudder and wonder whether we will be able to cooperate our international unions. But I am not willing to wait and find out. Let's be in a position to change that whole situation in 1948. I think we can do it."

A Type of Stomach Pain That May Be A Serious Emergency

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EVERY now and then the physician will be called on to attend a middle-aged person who has suddenly been stricken with a pain of terrific intensity in the pit of the stomach.

If this is accompanied by a rapid feeble pulse, swelling of the bowel, tenderness over the abdomen, rapid breathing, vomiting, a below-normal temperature and, above all, by cyanosis or blueness of the lips, the doctor will keep in mind that he may have a case of acute pancreatitis to deal with.

Sometimes it may be so severe as to prove fatal within an hour but in the majority of cases, proper treatment will forestall death and bring about recovery.

Men are more often stricken than women. Those who develop it are likely to be somewhat overweight and to have high blood pressure. The most important factor relating to the development of this condition seems to be gallstones. According to Dr. John Morley of Manchester, England, gallstones are present in 60 per cent or more of those who suffer from acute pancreatitis.

Not Easy to Diagnose

Acute pancreatitis is not an easy condition to diagnose because there are so many other troubles which give similar, though not identical, symptoms. These include gallbladder inflammation, the enlarging or breaking through the wall of the stomach of an ulcer, blocking of the passageway through the small intestine, and even coronary thrombosis, that is the formation of a blood clot in one of the arteries which supply the heart muscle with blood.

However, there is a laboratory test which may be helpful. This consists in determining the amount of amylase present in the blood and urine. Amylase is an enzyme and is a substance which aids in the digestion of starchy foods. If the amount is increased above normal, then it suggests the presence of acute pancreatitis.

Treatment by Operation

Formerly it was the practice to treat acute pancreatitis by operation, that is opening the abdomen and draining the pancreas. Today, however, it seems generally agreed that such operation is of little, if any, value in most cases. As a rule a different type of treatment will be more successful. Her father's shrewd eyes saw it on her face. "Come along with us, chick. We're only staying over a sailing. Say the word and I'll wire for another cabin." He added, gruffly: "That young fellow of yours oughtn't to object to your giving a little time to your old dad!"

Diane was too excited at his suggestion to resent the way he spoke of Bill. She cried: "Dad, I'd love to go!"

It was instantly reasonable, perfectly possible. Three weeks wasn't long. Bill had this new case to work on; he could stay at his mother's.

Hints on Etiquette

If you are one of those possessive people, reform yourself. You cannot possibly own anyone, and it is very bad manners

Today's Horoscope

You are domestic, fond of children, affable and considerate. You love your family and are very affectionate toward them. You have a sweet, even disposition, but are aroused to bitterness if your trust is violated. The day is a good one for sea, air, motion pictures, and out-of-the-ordinary interests. Financial gain or advantageous happening is indicated. There will be considerable gain through elders, it is evidenced, and much help from those in authority. New projects also will descend with uprooting and drastic force upon the life and all its plans, patterns and objectives, affecting all relationships and contacts with far-reaching and fundamental consequence.

Business, finance, skills, talents, ideas and ambitions are under strange or unique impetus to turn things over into fresh and thrilling pastures, the mind being keen in its reactions and insight for the sudden commotion and opportunity. Romance and adventure are forecast.

CHS Girl Graduates Entertained By BPW

Mrs. Davis Speaker At Annual Banquet

Class of '47 girl graduates of Circleville high school were guests of honor at the annual banquet Wednesday evening, in the Parish house of St. Philip's church, given by members of the Business and Professional Women's club.

Three long tables were decorated with Spring flowers and tall burning green tapers. The speakers' table placed at the end of the long room was centered with an arrangement of bridal wreath in a silver bowl, flanked by silver candelabra bearing green tapers, in compliment to the senior class colors. Each place was marked by clever miniature Mexican lace paper sombreros trimmed in silver and green, a favor and attractive place cards and programs. Bright bouquets graced each window.

Mrs. Harriet Henness, president, asked the group to join in repeating the club collet preceding the 6:30 banquet, prepared and served by women of St. Philip's church. Welcoming address to the guests, club members and girl graduates was presented by Mrs. Henness. In the absence of Miss Peggy Parks, program chairman, Mrs. J. C. Rader introduced Miss Shirley Blake, salutatorian of the class, who expressed the appreciation of the girls for the social evening and the honor bestowed upon them.

MRS. GEORGE BARNES served as chairman of all arrangements for the outstanding event which was one of the high lights of senior social activities. Mrs. Guy Campbell attended the meeting and was most cordially welcomed by all members. Mrs. Arthur Wagar sang "Visions" by C. L. Sjöberg and "A May Day Carol" by Deems Taylor, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. T. L. Huston.

Mrs. Rader presented Mrs. Ray W. Davis, guest speaker who very aptly selected the timely topic "Remember the Ladies" for her interesting and authentic address. She stressed the importance of women of today in affairs of the world, and cited many specific instances of women in their struggles to be recognized as intellectual leaders and spokesmen, in the current national and world struggle for a lasting peace — with regard to brotherly relationship among all nationalities, creeds and races.

HER ADDRESS was divided into sub-topics, first she told of the many privileges of women of today and how they exceeded those of any age in the history of the world. Mrs. Davis listed the many opportunities offered women of this decade, that had been so aptly fought for by our ancestors. She reminded the group "every thing has to be paid for in the recent strides of women. Time now has arrived for women to pay for, and accept the great responsibilities in universal affairs — that is their heritage."

Mrs. Davis told of the struggles and hardships suffered by the early pioneer women — how they aged early and died young. She contrasted this fact with women of today — that age did not make a woman old — life expectancy was greatly increased, along with more personality and a deeper mentality, acquired by the struggles during the last few years.

Graduates were reminded that "200 years ago—their bloom of youth would have vanished—while today they are on the threshold of womanhood. Circumstances have profoundly altered the status of a woman. Education was the greatest factor in their advancement, with every step up the ladder to be recognized was made by strong willed and strong minded women, who fought up the ladder of knowledge rung by rung." She cited Antioch College at Yellow Springs as the first college in the world to permit women to attend classes as students, on an equal basis with men.

"Now women have won the right to be people and citizens, instead of possessions of men—now they earn and spend their own money and are leaders for human rights. Women hold the purse strings for 80 percent of the world's money. They greatly outnumber men thus are able to carry any vital issue. Positions of highest authority are open to women, with no fields barred from the female sex. Women of today have the right to speak at any time — any place — before congress or legislation or before any group and are received as equals."

IN CLOSING her address Mrs. Davis left this thought in the minds of a most appreciative audience, "count your blessings and make up your minds to be prepared to pay for each blessing. Accept the responsibility of today's turmoil and share with the rest of the world, to conciliate a world for all brothers to live in peace and harmony."

Program closed with all standing to sing "Good-Night, Ladies". Gifts from the club were presented to Mrs. Wagar, Mrs. Huston, Miss Blake and Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Cromley gave a review of the national defense program, including addresses by Brig. Gen. John M. Devine, Representative Francis Bolton and Dr. Judd.

MRS. R. R. BALES presented the address of the afternoon. She said "at no time of the year are we as flag conscious as during the time of Memorial day, Flag day and July 4th. Another day to honor and of our own era is V. E. day—young in anniversaries but more flags were flown from homes and public buildings than ever before in the history of our nation on that memorial day. Never in our flag history has the American flag meant so much as at the present time."

"Our flag has traveled into the most remote and far distant corners of the world following our boys in line of duty. It stands guard over the resting places in foreign lands marked by rows of white crosses. Now in our restless and turbulent world affairs, we look to our faithful flag to fly high and guide our country in making the right decisions for a lasting and permanent peace."

MRS. BALES reminded her audience that when the flag is in a worn condition and not a fitting emblem it should be destroyed in a dignified way. There are four places in the U. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. David Kirkpatrick, Harold Alkire, Joyce and Betty Baldozer and Marilyn Miller by the degree team from Saltcreek grange in a very impressive manner.

Hoyt Timmons, master was in charge of the business session when the group voted a response for aid from two appeals. Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Pryor Harbourn and Mr. and Mrs. John Gehres members of the refreshment committee served lunch at the close of the program, to forty-four from the Saltcreek grange and sixty-four Logan Elm grangers. David Kirkpatrick, a new member, was presented a prize in the contests.

Mrs. Plum Hostess To Sigma Phi Gamma

Mrs. Ned Plum lent the hospitality of her home on East Franklin street for the regular meeting of Sigma Phi Gamma sorority with 11 members present.

Miss Barbara Caskey, president, presided for the meeting and heard the recording-secretary's report submitted by Mrs. Rosemary Goodchild. Mrs. Plum, social-secretary, listed the plans for the bridge party and auction on June 6, in the recreation center of St. Joseph's Catholic church. At the party refreshments will be served and cakes will be auctioned off. A fair will be open to the public and tickets may be purchased from any sorority member.

Lawn tea will be held June 8 in the home of Mrs. Stanley Glick, Walnut creek pike. Chairmen for the tea will include Mrs. Gene Barthelmas, Miss Norma Brown, Mrs. Edward Ebert and Mrs. Leland Siegfald. Special meeting has been called for Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the home of Miss Barbara Caskey, North Court street.

National Guard Dance Saturday

Dances, Picnic Mark Holiday Activities

First three day holiday of the year will be widely observed in the Circleville community, with various social activities slated and memorial services for the deceased in cemeteries. Many pleasure seekers are deviating from familiar routines and are stirring with plans for an enjoyable vacation. Guests will be entertained in many homes while others are planning trips for the long weekend.

BROWNIE'S band will furnish dance music in Memorial hall the evening of Memorial Day, for the benefit of the Youth Canteen, sponsored by members of Pickaway County Youth Canteen Parents' association. Public is invited to the dance which begins at 9 p. m. and will continue until 1 a. m. John Rhoads, member of activity committee, is in charge of arrangements for the dance. He is assisted by Mrs. Myra M. Rader and various committee members of the active organization.

PICKAWAY country club will be the setting for a family picnic, Decoration day, including all members and their families. Plenty of entertainment is slated for the youngsters, including pony rides, games and contests. The Charles Lormes trophy tournament will be held during the day.

Youth Fellowship Officers Elected

Miss Patsy Johnson, East Franklin street was hostess Tuesday evening for the regular meeting of Youth Fellowship of First Evangelical United Brethren church. Bob Huffer, vice-president, was in charge of the business session when the group discussed calendar meetings for the coming year. Next four months were designated as suitable for out-of-door activities.

Officers who were elected for the new year include, Dick Francis, president, Ralph Starkey, first vice-president, Ted Sims, second vice-president, Patsy Johnson, recording-secretary, Norma Dawson, corresponding secretary, James Starkey, treasurer, Don Woodward, sergeant-at-arms, Phyllis Hawkes, pianist and Mary Ann Woodward, assistant pianist.

Bob Huffer won the quiz contest during the social hours. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Ray Johnson, to fifteen members.

namement will be held during the afternoon along with other outdoor activities during the afternoon and evening.

Saturday evening there will be a dance open to the public in the Old Barn of Pickaway Country club. Music for the Spring dance will be furnished by Howard Mauger and his orchestra from 10 to 1. Sammy Bowen and his septa entertainers from Columbus will furnish an evening of entertainment for members of the American Legion and their ladies from 9 to 12 in the Legion home on East Main street.

ON RADIO PROGRAM

Girls sextet of Circleville high school directed by Mrs. Helen Brown, music instructor, presented a 15 minute program over radio station WOSU, Columbus Monday afternoon. In the group are Miss Beverly Kline, Miss Lorraine Pritchard, Miss Elaine Baker, Miss Lucille Stambaugh, Miss Joan Webb and Miss Doris Kinney. They were accompanied for their vocal selections by Miss Shirley Blake at the piano.

TO NAME OFFICERS

Annual election of officers will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. during the regular meeting of the Ladies aid of the First Evangelical United Brethren church in the community house. All members are requested to attend the important session when new plans will be made for the organization.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE
DON'T FIGHT THE CARDS
WHEN YOU knowingly place the final contract in a less logical declaration than the soundest one, solely because you think you can play a hand better than your partner, you are in effect fighting the cards. Which is something that simply doesn't pay. This is particularly applicable to those situations in which one member of a pair elects to strive for a No Trump game in preference to a major suit bid by his partner, especially if he knows the side has eight cards of the suit.

In that bidding North gave South a perfect picture of his hand. His spade rebid made it clear he had five of that suit and only four hearts. South's correct next bid would have been 4-Spades. In that contract nothing could have been lost except two tricks in clubs and one in trumps, as all other losers in North's hand could have been thrown on the diamonds.

But another factor was considered by South—he knew he was a better player of the cards than North. In addition, he liked the idea of a club lead coming up to his K. He did not consider how valuable his heart singleton might be, as a place where one or two of his little trumps might be used, or the usefulness of his strong diamonds to bring discards. With all those possibilities pointing to the simple playability of the suit contract, he did not think it as safe as the No Trump with a better player at the helm.

He was sorry later, as he struggled vainly for the No Trump game. The heart 5 lead brought the 7 and Q. East shifted to his club 7 with the 8 and the 9 won. West, refusing to help, returned his spade 8 to the A. Followed then five diamond tricks, South hoping West would be squeezed or would discard badly. But he held two each in hearts and clubs. South then scored the spade K, failing to drop the Q. West trashing a club, then the heart A. West then got the last two tricks with the heart K and club A.

Can you figure out the throw-in South could have worked for the contract, if good enough?

movie-bound. The stage and films in return have been the making of many radio personalities. It is like a small rotation within a closed circuit. Sometimes the rotations haven't panned out, for the simple reason that one who excels in stage technique is not always able to carry the same dramatic and comic ability through the voice alone, which is of course the prime prerequisite for radio.

Studio audiences can enjoy the humor of a mugger, but the listener at home laughs at words alone. Nevertheless, once a dramatic "find" becomes a movie personality who attracts about 40-million admirers a picture (as done, for instance by Lassie) he finds radio pounding at his colonial style door deep in Beverly Hills.

On the basis of his immense popularity, on the screen, Lassie, who really is a laddie named Pal (but in the movies the Smiths become Snythes) becomes star of a 15-minute radio program beginning June 8 (and every Sunday thereafter, ABC, 2 p. m. EST). The barks you hear will be those of Lassie himself, no two-footed impersonator.

The handsome Collie wears a specially made mike around his neck. The voices you hear of radio's top-flight actors and actresses will be those of the top-flight performers themselves.

COLUMBIA University with the next Fall term, "recognizing the importance of the radio commentator in our society" is offering a course in developing procedures and policies for future commentators. Jimmy Durante and his drug store sponsor have signed for another year with a few minor changes in the program. It moves from CBS to NBC and Garry Moore won't be around next season to parry words with the Schnozz. With all the switchovers and changes, NBC has the sack full of stars, and CBS' roster grows thinner. Sinatra moves next Fall to the "Hit Parade," which recently left Columbia; Kate Smith is a Columbia has-been now that she's over on Mutual with her noon show; so Dinah Shore and Ginny Simms "Take It or Leave It" takes its money bags over to NBC.

A certain radio fan of Jack Benny showed up at one of his New York broadcasts toting a radio. The fan didn't want to miss Gene Autry, on CBS at the same time. He got no tolerance from NBC, and was hastily ushered out of the studio.

"There is no reason for an educational program to be dull." That is the opinion of Sherman H. Dryer, producer-director of "Exploring the Unknown," who has proved his contention by making the Sunday night science-drama series so entertaining it attracts a wider audience each time it takes to the air.

As further proof of his point, Dryer refers to the great success enjoyed by the book, "Mathematics for the Millions," despite the fact that math is one of the least popular subjects in the schools. Paul De Kruif's "Microbe Hunters" became a best seller, and the book and screen version of "Madame Curie" attracted conspicuous fame.

Dryer reminds us that laymen invariably show interest in "shop talk" about the other fellow's work. "People are naturally curious," concludes Dryer, "and satisfying their curiosity about various subjects offers a great opportunity to entertain them."

Tiny Woman Observes 84th Birthday Anniversary Here

MR S. BARTLEY WHO WEIGHS 84 POUNDS IS BUSY

Aunt Of 515-Pound 'Tiny' Thomas Healthy, Happy Marking Birth Date

Today was another red-letter day in the life of Mrs. Sarah Thomas Rambo Bartley, 637 Clinton street.

Today was the tiny old woman's 84th birthday anniversary and it was a mighty busy day for her.

Clinging steadfastly to her annual custom she was spending the day plucking gorgeous flowers from her bounteous flower garden which was a veritable fairland of vari-colored blossoms of many kinds at the rear of her little frame cottage.

The frail but wiry woman born May 29, 1863 in Jackson township—during the Civil War—has been a life-long resident of this community.

Down through the years, she confided today, she waits patiently for another birthday to roll around so that she can again supply a lot of beautiful flowers for the Memorial Day decoration of the graves of Uncle Sam's fallen heroes of all wars.

A LIFE-TIME of hard work. That, briefly, is the story of the career of Mrs. Bartley. Although a little hard of hearing she is able to enjoy reading The Circleville Herald daily without the aid of glasses. In fact she asserted that she never has worn spectacles.

Mrs. Bartley is 4 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 84 pounds. She confided that the most she ever weighed was 106 pounds. Living with her is her son, George Rambo. Her second husband, Harrison Bartley, died four years ago.

The tiny old flower-loving woman did the family washing Tuesday—without the aid of a washing machine—and Wednesday she did the ironing.

INCIDENTALLY she is an aunt of George "Tiny" Thomas, 41, of 376 Walnut street. By way of contract "Tiny" weighs 515 pounds and he is the heaviest resident of Circleville and one of

NEW MOVE FOR MORE LOCAL TAX FUNDS STARTED

COLUMBUS, O., May 29 — A new move by local governments to garner an additional 30 millions a year in state aid was in the making today.

The move, led by Cincinnati Hobart A. Wehking, chairman of the Hamilton county commissioners, would place two referendum proposals before the voters this November.

One would require the return the heaviest in the nation. Mrs. Bartley is a sister of Thomas Thomas, father of "Tiny," who stands 6 feet one inch, wear a 22 collar, size 12 shoes, and measures 71 inches around his waist.

to the counties, on the basis of the countywide tax duplicate, half of all state sales and use taxes. These taxes last year yielded about 104 millions, which would mean 52 millions to the counties.

By contrast, this year's all-time high local government fund totals only 25 million.

The other proposal would return to the counties the state's present one-half share of the inheritance tax, which last year amounted to slightly more than two and a half millions.

Since the first large and cumbersome battery radio sets, radio batteries have been developed to such an amazing degree that a portable radio may be carried in a vest pocket.

CLIFTON TRIAL POSTPONED UNTIL MONDAY, JUNE 9

Third postponement of the burglary trial of George Clifton, 24, was announced Wednesday by Judge William D. Radcliff and County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins.

The new trial date is June 9. The selection of a jury is scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. in Pickaway county common pleas court. Clifton is at liberty under bond under an indictment charging him with the $1,300 robbery of the American Legion club at 136 East Main street the night of Nov. 9, 1946.

The trial was previously postponed from March 26 to June 2. Judge Radcliff and Prosecutor Robbins said the third postponement was necessitated by the fact that Attorney Joseph W. Adkins, counsel for Clifton, must be in court at Toledo on another case on June 2.

Clifton was acquitted by a jury Feb. 22 under another indictment which charged him with the $333 burglary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars club at 217 North Court street.

CLIFTON TRIAL POSTPONED UNTIL MONDAY, JUNE 9

Third postponement of the burglary trial of George Clifton, 24, was announced Wednesday by Judge William D. Radcliff and County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins.

The new trial date is June 9. The selection of a jury is scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. in Pickaway county common pleas court. Clifton is at liberty under bond under an indictment charging him with the $1,300 robbery of the American Legion club at 136 East Main street the night of Nov. 9, 1946.

The trial was previously postponed from March 26 to June 2. Judge Radcliff and Prosecutor Robbins said the third postponement was necessitated by the fact that Attorney Joseph W. Adkins, counsel for Clifton, must be in court at Toledo on another case on June 2.

Clifton was acquitted by a jury Feb. 22 under another indictment which charged him with the $333 burglary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars club at 217 North Court street.

TWO TROOP 107 SCOUTS PASS SIGNALING TESTS

Carl Johnson led in the Scout oath and Warren Harmon led the repeating of Scout laws at the meeting of Boy Scout troop 107.

A business meeting was held. Scouts practiced signaling and Gordon Blake and Bob Armor passed tests.

Meeting was closed with the Scoutmaster's benediction.
